Class Attendance: Attendance is expected, but not required. If you are absent on a quiz day without university related reasons, the penalty will be zero on that quiz!

Quizzes: There will be 10 quizzes through the semester. Quizzes are usually given in classes during the last 15 minutes and need to be uploaded to the Crowdmark. Upload your answers for each question! No make-up quizzes or early quizzes! But the lowest quiz score (zero for missed quiz) will be dropped. No calculators, notes or books on quizzes or exams!

Homework: Online homework will be assigned daily on MyMathLab via Blackboard (http://learn.wsu.edu/) and worth 20% in total. It is your responsibility to check Blackboard regularly and watch out for due dates. You will get a zero if you never open an assignment, but MyMathLab doesn’t show it immediately. Late submission will get 50% penalty.

Exams: There will be 1 midterm exams plus a final exam as noted on the schedule. Make up or early exams are given only for extremely rare cases. If you know you are going to miss an exam, please notify me as soon as possible so I can determine if a make-up or early exam is applicable. Calculators/notes/books are not allowed on exams.

Study Assistance: Successful students make use of available resources, so don’t struggle when help is just a few steps away! We want you to succeed, we’re here for you, and we have FREE tutoring available in the Math Learning Center (Cleveland 130) and the computing lab in Thompson Hall (Room 1). Check it out: http://www.math.wsu.edu/studyhalls/welcome.php

Academic Integrity: Please note that we take extremely seriously the university’s policy on the need for academic honesty in all your work. Any form of dishonesty in an assignment will lead to a zero on an assignment and we reserve the right to give a grade of F for the course as well. If needed, Student Conduct will be contacted. Visit the following site https://academicintegrity.wsu.edu/students/ for more information regarding what constitutes academic dishonesty and the WSU procedures for handling cases of academic dishonesty.

Students with Disabilities: Reasonable accommodations are available for students with a documented disability. If you have a disability and need accommodations to fully participate in this class, please either visit or call the Access Center (Washington Building 217; 509-335-3417) to schedule an appointment with an Access Advisor. All accommodations MUST be approved through the Access Center. Please note: Test anxiety by itself is NOT a disability and the Access Center does not accommodate the student if that is their only problem (Access Center will refer the student to the Counseling Center for counseling). Also, having English as a second language does NOT qualify students to receive accommodations.

Accommodation for Religious Observances or Activities: Washington State University reasonably accommodates absences allowing for students to take holidays for reasons of faith or conscience or organized activities conducted under the auspices of a religious denomination, church, or religious organization. Reasonable accommodation requires the student to coordinate with the instructor on scheduling examinations or other activities necessary for course completion. Students requesting accommodation must provide written notification within the first two weeks of the beginning of the course and include specific dates for absences. Approved accommodations for absences will not adversely impact student grades. Absence from classes or examinations for religious reasons does not relieve students from responsibility for any part of the course work required during the period of absence. Students who feel they have been treated unfairly in terms of this accommodation may refer to Academic Regulation 104 Academic Complaint Procedures.
